In order that they may be fully informed on local traffic safety needs, the Carson Chamber of Commerce has appointed L. O. Griffiths chairman of a committee to make a survey of the highway markings. This will include crosswalks, lights, stop signs, school signs, etc. In this way the C of C will be able to coordinate local safety drives when it meets with the Los Angeles Traffic Committee to make recommendations. The first meeting of the committee was held Monday, Oct. 20. Those meeting with Griffiths were Lloyd Desmond, Jack Smith, Joe Coffey, and Jack Henry.

Positive proof that Carson St. School has passed the 100th mark in student enrollment comes in the form of Mrs. Jeanie McCormick, who has been appointed vice-principal as assistant to Mrs. Wallace, principal. She comes from the East District where, for seven years, she was office teacher at San Rafael and Chevy Chase schools in the Eagle Rock section. All who meet her will agree that she is a necessary and most charming addition to our school.

A meeting of the committee to plan a party for Cub Scout Troop 230-C was held at the home of Mrs. M. Anderson, 21709 Neptune last Tuesday night. The party will be held at the Ted Carter residence, 21232 Caroldale, on Oct. 27.

Bicycle licenses were issued at Carson St. School last Tuesday. This was quite a help for the children of the area, because in other years they have had to go to the sheriff's office, which is very inconvenient for most of them.

If you are wandering down the hall at Carson St. and come upon a beehive, don't be alarmed. The teachers haven't taken to beekeeping to reinforce their incomes—it's just the display being used by the PTA during membership week. The hive represents the school and each of the bees is a class. The first class achieving 100 per cent membership will receive a picture to be hung in their room for the rest of the year. The children have brought home envelopes which parents are urged to use, and to return with their year's dues. Part of the money from this drive goes to a student body fund, which the school uses for children's needs and interest. Last year they purchased sheep, which were housed, fed, and cared for through the year at the school. Then in May all the children watched them being sheared—so the money is used for worthwhile projects right here, as well as the most necessary child welfare work.

Friends and neighbors of Mrs. Richard Landon, 601 W. Carson St., will be happy to know that she is much better and is, in fact, recovering so nicely that she can have visitors in her room at the Torrance Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Landon is well known for her work with the Bluebirds and Carson St. PTA.
